The structure of the camp will utilize rotating math centers that will provide an opportunity for students to practice and apply skills and strategies that have been taught at their grade level. Students will complete independent work, partner activities, or group work in stations. While students are engaged in other work stations, one center will allow me the opportunity to work individually with each student.

Math centers will change daily and cover a variety of topics including: multi-digit addition, subtraction, multiplication, division, decimals, fractions, polygons and problem solving.
